WRESTLING MATCH DECLARED OFF

ANOTHER ONE, HOWEVER, HAS BEEN ARRANGED FOR TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

The wrestling match that was to have taken place in the opera house, between Ed. Taylor of the navy and "Kid" Phillips of Philadelphia, was called off last night by the backers of the Quaker City lad and the latter's forfeit, $50, was paid over to Taylor.

Taylor, who has been in training for the last couple of weeks, will not have had all his hard work and trouble for nothing, however, as another match has been arranged for him to take place next Tuesday afternoon at Palmetto Beach. It will be with Harry Blue, of Indianapolis, and will be for $100 a side and the gate receipts, winner to take all.

Preceding the contest between Blue and Taylor, besides a couple of rattling good preliminaries, will be a baseball game between the crack navy yard team and a nine from one of the boats that is now there.

Ladies are especially invited. They will be admitted at half price. The ball game will begin at 2:30 sharp. The admission for gentlemen will be 50 cents.

LOG HOUSES AT PORTLAND

BUILDINGS AND BOOTHS SHOW FOREST WEALTH OF OREGON AT LEWIS AND CLARK EXPOSITION.

Special to The Journal.

Portland, May 26.—The forests of Oregon, through which Meriwether Lewis and William Clark worked their way to the Pacific a century ago, have been used extensively at the Lewis and Clark Exposition in the construction of buildings and booths. The visitor to the Western World's Fair this summer may study the wildwood in the booth of an energetic manufacturer, or inhale the fragrance of the springing sap in a building constructed of rough-brown forest giants.

The Forestry building is in itself an exhibit of the timber wealth of the Pacific Northwest, which is estimated to aggregate 300,000,000,000 feet board measure. The building is constructed entirely of mighty fir logs and cedar bark shingles, and any one of the logs that make up the side walls and the pillars which support the roof contains enough lumber to build a cottage. The building covers half the space of an ordinary city block and is as tall as a church.

The Young Women's Christian Association of Portland also has erected a log house, where members of the society and other women may find rest while visiting the fair. The building is constructed after the manner of a modern residence, with large reception rooms, and wide fire places where a cherry log fire is kept blazing all the time.

In the Agricultural building, a number of exhibitors have taken advantage of the nature of the exposition to build most attractive booths of logs or cedar bark. A Vermont maple sugar company has built a large log cabin, of the kind used by sugar makers in Vermont, and give their daily exhibitions of how maple sugar is made. The building has attracted a great deal of attention. The only unfortunate feature about it is the circumstance of the structure being made of Oregon fir logs instead of maple. Even enthusiastic Oregonians do not claim that the Oregon fir, with all its virtues, can produce pancake syrup.

A company which will exhibit Indian curios, baskets and other Indian handiwork, has an open-front booth in which the decorations are of bark and the supporting pillars of fir.

The state of North Dakota, which has an excellent display at the fair, has, as the central feature of its exhibit, the cabin which was occupied for three years by Theodore Roosevelt, when the president was a cowboy, back in the eighties. The cabin, reproduced exactly as it was when Mr. Roosevelt lived in it, is a small, one-story structure of two rooms, the walls of which are made of logs chinked with clay, and the roof of hard packed earth.

About the exposition grounds, which are made attractive by green grass and gay-hued roses, the rustic idea is maintained fittingly in numerous instances. There are several little bowers of logs, with rustic railings. In Centennial Park, a natural woodland, which forms one of the most attractive features of the fair, rustic benches have been built around the bases of trees, and there are steps of logs at every slight ascent, and rustic railings where the way is steep.

CONDUCTOR J. O. JENNINGS RETURNS FROM NEW YORK.

The many friends of Conductor J. O. Jennings of the L. & N. are glad to see him at home again from New York, where he went several weeks ago to undergo a surgical operation.

Conductor Jennings was treated in the New York Polyclinic Hospital and he is enthusiastic in his praise of that institution and of its courteous physicians and attendants. He says he had a very pleasant trip and thinks he will be able to go to work again in a few days.

During the season of early vegetables and unripe fruits, diarrhoea and bowel disorders are prevalent. Calais's Sennaruba Bowel Tonic stops the fermentation, kills the poisonous germs and cures in a short time. Price 25c. Sold at White's Pharmacy.

LEMP'S

Beer needs no words of recommendation and praise before the public. A beverage as brewed by that extensive firm is like U. S. currency—people take it because they know it is an

and genuine article, and that, like pure air and nutritive food, it is beneficial to health. Because the beer of the Hofbrauerer in Munich is delicious, men, women and children are seen waiting for hours to be served, because the supply of

is not equal to the demand. Even so with Lemp's product. Located at St. Louis he established one of the largest breweries in the world, and yet every year the capacity has to be increased.
